

IN MEMORIAM

LARRY R. DIPOMA

REMEMBERED

There are only a handful of people who come into your world, and touch your life in a dramatic fashion. Some of the people are just flickers of light during a long life, while others are consistent glows for years. For me, Larry was that consistent glow. He was one of my dearest friends for close to 30 years.

I remember feeling so comfortable around him. I had never experienced that before with other friends. I felt like I could tell him anything, like he was the brother I never had. For the first time, there was a consistent figure in my life, which I could turn to for friendship and support.

He taught me that life is short, and the most important part of life is the people in it. I will be grateful for his teachings forever.

Larry, I love you. I miss you. You have graced my life more than you will ever know. While I grieve over your death, I thank God that such a man lived.

6 July 1944 ~ 2 September 2010